Candidates announced for elections

By Janice Harrington

Some will win and some will lose, but either way a large number of Didsbury residents have thrown their hat in the ring for this year's municipal election.

The largest contest in this year's election, slated for October 19, will be over the 6 town council seats available. Fourteen people officially filed their nomination papers by yesterday's nomination deadline.

Only two incumbents will try to keep their seats. Allan Engel and Norman Pratt will vie for the seats they have held for the past 4 years. New candidates also seeking the same seats are Gayle Margaret Veno, George Anderson, Brian Parry Banfield, Peter M. Crosby, Edward Vermunt, Dan Peters, Willard Swalm, Vance Van Dam, Brian Baswick, Roderick Kent Collinge, James Howard Turner and Ruth M. Johnston.

The second most hotly contested position on town council is the mayor's seat. Three candidates, Marjorie Malinowski, Doug Sharpe and Ray Lea will vie for the spot. Both Malinowski and Sharpe currently sit on council as councillors.

But while the town's municipal positions are hotly contested, positions for the next hospital board and school board are not. Both boards only received as many names as positions available. The two hospital board seats have been given by acclamation to Raymond Shantz and W. Douglas Waite. Didsbury's 2 school board positions have also been elected by acclamation. Incumbent school trustee Murray Snyder has returned to the board along with newcomer Deborah Cousins.

In county elections news, the majority of positions have remained in the hands of incumbents by acclamation. Ben Penner, Diane Davies, Dave Derksen and John Grimstead, representing Divisions 1,2,3 and 4 respectively, have been re-elected to their council

Recycling project hits a snag

By Janice Harrington

A proposal to start up a recycling project within the Town of Didsbury has hit a snag.

Didsbury Lions President Brian Banfield said all plans for the project are on hold pending a final decision by the provincial Department of Environment about funding for the pro-

"The province is basically balking at funding the building we have applied to build," Banfield said. "And I guess I can't really blame them. I think they have been burned before by giving tens of thousands of dollars and then having the project go bust in the past."

The Lions, through the town, made application for over $60,000 in funding under the province's Resource Recovery grant program late last July. The funding was to be used to supply equipment and a building to operate a recycling program, designed by the Lions, for paper, glass and plastic.

But a recent visit by a bureaucrat from the Environment Department has sent the town and members of the Lions club scrambling to find an appropriate building on their own to help save the rest of the funding application.

"We believe that the lack of a building is the main problem," Banfield said. "This is just inference though. The guy from Alberta Environment did not come out and say definitely that was the problem, but he did say that they would look more favorably upon the application if there was a building already in place."

Hal Danchilla, spokesman for Alberta Environment agreed.

Developer sees Didsbury potential

By Janice Harrington

A developer working on two major projects for Didsbury says she sees tremendous potential in the town.

Gladys Ringheim, a former resident who recently returned to Didsbury, said she came home because of the great opportunities here.

"I believe up to now this has been a sleeper town, but it is going to grow," she said. "I see tremendous potential or else I wouldn't be here."

Ringheim moved back to Didsbury after a 45-year absence to oversee 2 of her own projects in town; a 57 unit adult-living condo project and a 48 unit motel to be built beside the new indoor swimming facility.

Ringheim, who has worked in real estate, marketing, tourism and publishing, said Didsbury is the perfect place for both her projects.

"I was raised here and I think it's a good town," she said. "But I was also attracted because of the facilities. We have great medical facilities and so much for sports. It's also a very pretty town, very scenic and so many towns aren't."

The changes which have occurred in Didsbury over the past year, which include the town's vote to build the indoor swimming pool, are going to attract people and money to Didsbury Ringheim said, not just seniors.

"There are some who think this [adult-living condo] type of project will turn this into a senior's town," she said. "But this is a people's town. I have had lots of calls on the project—some from young families who want to move to Didsbury. So [rather than just attracting seniors], the project will free up family homes so these families can move in."

The condo project, which is called Countrywynde, will be a 57 unit complex on 9 acres of land. Features of the project will include a 3,800 square foot club house, garden spots, putting green, horseshoe pits, secured RV parking, and a security entrance. Ringheim said she is just putting the final touches on construction plans before beginning to build.

The second project is a 48 unit motel which will be built beside the new indoor swimming pool facility currently under construction. Ringheim said the motel will include a family restaurant, fireside dining lounge and conference room. Plans are to complete the motel by the time the pool is ready to open and the condo project by sometime this spring.

But besides her work on the 2 projects, Ringheim said she is also interested in getting more involved with the town.

"I'm very interested in the Chamber and I would like to help market the town," she said. "Didsbury is starting to attract business people with entrepreneurial spirit and forward thinking ideas, and I think even more people will start contributing because they see something happening."

A way of life

An artist's rendition of what Ringheim's Countrywynde development will look like. The condominium project is an adult living complex with lots of green space and security measures. The condo project and the proposed motel should be under construction sometime this fall.

positions without competition. The Division 6 seat was also elected by acclamation by Jack Peck who replaces outgoing councillor Ken Turnbull. Elections will be held for Divisions 5 and 7. Linda Hislop will vie with incumbent Don Molesky for the Division 5 seat. Two new candidates, Pat James and Darcy Dobush will vie for Division 7's seat, which was left vacant by long-time county councillor Mel Richards who decided against trying to retain his seat last month.

More election news on who is running in each town around the county can be found inside The Review.

Municipal elections for those seats not elected by acclamation will be held October 19, 1992.

Brown bag offers topics to chew on

By Janice Harrington

Ladies who lunch are the target of the second annual FCSS Brown Bag Theatre project.

FCSS Secretary Shwena Krebs said the lunch time theatre project will focus on working women to get them informed and talking about a variety of issues.

"We want to try and focus on the women who work downtown and usually spend their lunch hours just eating," she said. "With this program, we can get them talking about issues that affect them while they eat."

This is the second year FCSS has put on the Brown Bag Theatre. The project, which will go over the lunch hour every Thursday from October 1 to November 26, will feature a 20 to 30 minute video presentation and then discussion.

"We have tried to pick different and varied topics, something for everyone," Krebs said. "We think people might find it interesting and talk about it, maybe bringing out something in their own lives."

Topics for this year's theatre include everything from marriage to making toys, from senior's gymnastics to unemployment in the 90's.

"We are hoping to get people away from just eating lunch over their lunch hour," said Krebs. "We hope they will come and see something else they might find interesting."

Brown Bag Theatre begins

Thursday, October 1 at 12:10 p.m. at the library. Cost is free and everyone is encouraged to pack a lunch.

Donation program set up

By Janice Harrington

Two methods for those who wish to help out the Weber family after their tragic loss have been set up by the family's church.

Didsbury Missionary Church Assistant Pastor Tom Hilchie said the church has set up two means for those who may wish to help.

Hilchie said the first option is to give to a fund set up especially for the Webers.

"They can give to the church and we will see that the money is channeled directly to the family," he said. "But, unfortunately we can't issue a tax receipt for that."

The second option for donation is through the church's emergency fund. Hilchie said that the church will try to ensure the money is directed to the Webers, but said tax laws may interfere with all the money getting to them.

"Any one who needs more information about how that works can call the church and we will give them more of an explanation," Hilchie said.

Money and calls from concerned friends and neighbors have continued to pour into the church after the fatal explosion at the Weber's family home on September 11 which injured Ebba Weber and killed her husband Cecil Weber.

Hilchie said the response has been overwhelming.

"I know there was just a pile of cards with money in it for the family that came through at the funeral," he said. "The support and encouragement has been incredible."

Hilchie said the church will continue to support the family with donated funds but said they plan to wait before accepting donations of clothes and household goods.

"We really appreciate the generosity but we would like to wait until a decision is made about where Ebba plans to live and also on the insurance company."

Ebba, who was released from the hospital last week, is currently staying with family members.

RCMP report

In recent months there has been an increase in reports of car thefts both from the municipal and rural areas. Here are a few tips to make it harder for car thieves. Make sure all windows are closed, the doors are locked and you have the key. Never hide a spare key under the carpeting or over the sunvisor. Thieves know where to look. At night park your vehicle in a well lit area. Never leave luggage, packages or other easily removed articles in view inside your vehicle. Finally, place all valuables in the trunk when leaving your vehicle unattended. Perhaps by following these simple rules, the incidence of car thefts can be reduced.

During the last month, Didsbury RCMP responded to a total of 322 complaints, 65 of which resulted in criminal action and one drug charge. There were 34 motor vehicle accidents, and three impaired driving charges. 41 traffic tickets, 16 written warnings and two liquor control act tickets were issued.

OPINIONS/EDITORIAL

Go Stamps go!

By Janice Harrington

There must have been some kind of CFL record broken by Sunday's game between the Calgary Stampeders and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers. What a blowout!

Unfortunately, because the Stamps did pretty much the reverse for the Labour Day Classic against Calgary's arch-rival Edmonton Eskimos, only a sparse crowd turned out to see the stomping our potential Grey Cup winning team meted out to the Bombers (this is the speculation by Calgary media although in all fairness, Sunday was a busy day for activities in and around the city).

It would be most regretful if Calgary fans jumped off the bandwagon because of one bad game. Let's face it, with this year's team, and after last year's performance, the Stamps are indeed in a great position to run the ball all the way this year. But integral to every team's winning attitude is the fan support. We need to be far more forgiving and supportive of our team if we want to see that large trophy displayed at McMahon Stadium with the Stampeders name etched on it. Jumping on and off the bandwagon with every win and loss is debilitating. Certainly not the behavior suiting the same city who packs the Saddledome to the rafters game after game during the hockey season.

The Stampeders have done much adjusting to bring better football to Calgary. We need to do a little adjusting ourselves to show them just how much we appreciate their efforts.

The battle has begun.

Didsbury is in store for quite a show with 14 residents competing for 6 town council seats. Of most interest will be each stand taken on the issues.

The mayoralty race will also be quite a match with no popular leader (at least at this point) in either race.

Considering the lack of interest in the last municipal election (each council member was elected by acclamation), this year's version promises to generate much more heat and great news stories. The list of candidates is varied—everyone coming from various backgrounds, each with different agendas. Hopefully the long nomination list is also an indicator of the interest voters hold for the municipal election. Voter turn out has been poor in the past, even in such controversial votes as the swimming pool debenture. Let's hope a larger turn out will occur this year.

Quote Of The Week:

"After all the travels I've had and all the things I've seen, I have to agree with Joyce Mullen who says Didsbury is a slice of heaven."

An open letter

Open letter to: Mr. Ken Taylor, Planning & Development Officer, County of Mountain View.

Dear Mr. Taylor:

Thank you for agreeing to speak and answer questions at a public meeting at the Water Valley Community Hall on September 24, 7-9 p.m.

Perhaps prior knowledge of the areas of concern to ratepayers would be of benefit to you. We are using this open letter to advertise the meeting to enable others to prepare their questions for you. Following are some concerns:

What are the guidelines governing sub-division? Can these be printed and made readily available? What consideration is given to long-term results of population growth: schools, parks, recreation, water and sewer systems and other public services?

What rules and processes are used to guide the County in its long range planning? How frequently are the plans revised? How much public input is sought? Are these plans made within any larger context like the Eastern Slopes Development Plan? Are they governed by needs or impact studies? Also, what other information could you provide that would benefit local ratepayers?

Better lines of communication and more public input might ease the concerns held by many of the ratepayers.

We are looking forward to meeting with you.

Further curfew opposition

Dear Editor:

As we all know there has been an opposed midnight curfew in Didsbury. But while this anonymous group has been trying to get this infused in Didsbury they didn't even think about how the public felt. I, myself has talked to the public, and a lot of them don't like the idea of this curfew. Of course, the teenagers don't like it, but I'm talking about adults that don't like the idea.

I have read your editorial on this subject and have read many of the letters to the editor. And a lot of the surrounding communities have talked to people in Didsbury. And the letter of the well known Mr. Peter Crosby has said his opinion about it.

Also, when this curfew idea came up I talked to a person, who said that all this vandalism could have come from people who have had too much to drink and/or people from different towns.

My point is that the Town Council aren't giving the public a say in this.

Sincerely,
Chad Conley,
Didsbury

Apology wanted

Dear Editor:

Re: Propane leak blamed for fatal explosion (The Review, Sept. 15); in my opinion two things are missing from this story: compassion and responsibility.

Two days before The Review appeared, most media, including The Calgary Herald had confirmed the death of Cecil Weber in a house explosion near Didsbury.

In fact, the Herald of Sept. 13 stated: "Cecil Weber's body was recovered in the basement at 10 a.m. Saturday (Sept. 12)," the morning following this tragedy. Imagine then how readers, including the Webers' family, friends and neighbors must have felt when The Review of Sept. 15 informed them: "Cecil Weber is still missing, although a body found in the house is believed to be his." No source is given for this startling revelation. If it came from the RCMP, then it should be attributed to the RCMP.

Even more incredible, in light of the foregoing, the final paragraph of this story stated: "A funeral for Cecil Weber is planned for this afternoon at 1:30 p.m. at the Didsbury Missionary Church."

Mr. Weber was born, raised and lived all of his life in Didsbury. He was a kind, gentle, caring man. He and his family deserved better treatment from their hometown newspaper.

I believe an apology is due.

Peter Crosby,
Didsbury

Editor's Note: RCMP press release as of the Monday after the incident still had not officially identified the body found in the home. RCMP were awaiting positive identification before releasing any names. In this editor's opinion, printing the facts as they are available is the biggest responsibility of a hometown newspaper.

GOVERNMENT NEWS

Report from the Legislature

Hon. Roy Brassard,
MLA, Olds-Didsbury
Constituency
School's back in!

In this school year, the Alberta Government will spend about $1.8 billion to educate over 560 thousand ECS, elementary, junior and senior high school students around our province. This funding level is almost 5% above last year's expenditures. Taxpayers now provide about $5,700 on average for each student in school.

The Government has taken steps to better focus on results in the classroom. As one measure, the Government will be providing some grants to school boards - for the first time - on the basis of students both at the beginning and end of the school year. This encourages schools to keep students in the classroom learning.

The province will also continue with its significant commitment to the updating of Alberta's 1,573 public separate schools. Nearly $92 million is allocated to school construction this year. This includes the building of 13 new schools, and additions to existing schools and portable classrooms. In excess of $37 million is allocated to modernizations and upgrades on existing schools to ensure that school environments encourage learning and meet today's safety codes.

This school year will also bring a number of new initiatives. These include the first Canada-wide national test of literacy and numeracy, consultation on a new single high school diploma, finalization of a policy on the integration of special needs students and a focus on improving the coordination of services for children.

If you would like to provide input to the Minister or information on any education issue, please contact his office at 427-2025 or phone me in our constituency office and I will pass your comments along. And remember, if you would like a copy of the Consensus Report on the Constitution, please call our constituency office at 556-3132 or my Edmonton office at 422-0141 (collect).

MP's column

Completing The Constitutional Process

By Louise Feltham
Wild Rose M.P.

Many Canadians have invested a great deal of time and energy to arrive at a proposal for Constitutional Reform. As we prepare for a Referendum on the Proposal, many of us feel that a resolution on this crucial issue is essential, now.

I am amazed that anyone would suggest that we place this fundamental issue aside. To suggest that we turn our attention from the Constitution to the economy is even more baffling; political stability, in any country, is crucial for economic security.

The strongest action we can take to improve our economy is to vote "yes" in support of the proposal for Constitutional Reform. A "yes" vote would allow the federal government to focus on the economy. A "yes" vote would provide potential investors, Canadian and international, with the political stability they look for.

If anyone needs proof that we live in a global economy, the events of the last week provide a clear example. Germany's Central Bank announced a reduction in its basic lending rates and the reactions were felt around the world. On Monday, stock prices rose sharply in North American, European and Japanese markets; turmoil in the stock and currency markets on Tuesday continued to buffet the Canadian dollar; on Thursday, the Bank of Canada raised the prime rate.

A "no" vote will not strengthen the economy. A "no" vote will precipitate the division of our country. Political instability does not provide a good climate for investment. If our country does split, each part of Canada will have less than we have together. Dividing assets and liabilities will take a good deal of time and energy--(just ask anyone who has been divorced).

I believe that a "yes" vote is good for Canada and good for Alberta.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES BOARD, ALBERTA

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING OF A PENDING APPLICATION BY TRANSAITA UTILITIES CORPORATION TO CHANGE ITS EXISTING RATES, TOLLS AND CHARGES.

NOTICE OF AN EXPEDITED PROCEEDING

TransAlta Utilities Corporation (TransAlta) has requested that the Public Utilities Board (the Board) adopt a procedure to allow TransAlta to apply, in an expeditious manner, for a change in TransAlta's existing rates, tolls and charges or schedules thereof, with respect to electric service provided to its customers in Alberta, effective January 1, 1993. The Board will hold a pre-hearing conference with respect to the request on Friday, October 2, 1992 at its Edmonton offices on the 12th Floor, 10055 - 106 Street, commencing at 9:30 AM. The purpose of the pre-hearing conference is to establish procedures and dates for the complete rate application to be submitted by TransAlta, the date for the hearing of the application and to deal with such other matters as may be appropriate.

PARTICULARS OF THE NOTICE OF INTENT TO APPLY FOR A RATE INCREASE

The Board approved inclusion of Sheerness Unit 2 generating station in rate base for the 1992 test year in Decision E91093, dated December 16, 1991. The mid-year convention resulted in only a portion of the annualized costs of Unit 2 being included in TransAlta's approved 1992 revenue requirement. TransAlta gave notice of its intent to apply for a rate increase that would generate an increase in 1993 revenues to recover the remaining annualized costs attributable to Sheerness Unit 2 and other costs.

TransAlta has proposed an expedited process for its rate application which it considered would be more efficient and less costly. Under TransAlta's proposal interested parties would attempt to reach a consensus on the appropriate elements and levels of costs which may form the basis of rates, effective January 1, 1993. Evidence of such consensus would be put before the Board in support of the application.

TransAlta requested that the following items be discussed at the pre-hearing conference:

1. the process whereby consensus would be sought,
2. the role of Board staff as observers of the process,
3. the options if substantial consensus is not reached, and
4. the handling of applicant and intervenor cost claims

TO INTERVENE IN THE HEARING

Interested parties who wish to be registered as an Intervenor in these proceedings should set out their name, address and the way in which these proceedings affect them in a notice of intervention. The notice of intervention can be delivered or mailed to both the Board and to TransAlta at the addresses below prior to the pre-hearing conference. Alternately, interested parties may register their intervention in person at the time of the hearing or be represented by Counsel. All parties who are registered as Intervenor will be entitled to receive from TransAlta copies of all evidence filed during the rate application proceedings, examine witnesses and submit evidence. All parties who are registered as Intervenor will receive notice of the time and place of the continuation of these proceedings.

Any party who is not a registered intervenor will not be entitled to further notice of these proceedings.

Any party who requires further information regarding the hearing process may contact the Public Utilities Board or TransAlta offices as listed below:

By Janice Harrington

Didsbury residents annoyed by loud train whistles won't be receiving any relief from the CPR.

At a meeting with Didsbury Town Council, CPR representative John Redicopp said train engineers are forced by law to toot their horns through municipal rail crossings.

"The rule by-law is that the drivers must start whistling 1/4 mile from the crossing and continue until the crossing is fully occupied," he said.

But while law dictates when trains must whistle, Redicopp said that law can be circumvented by an anti-whistling by-law.

An anti-whistling by-law, passed by a municipal council, would prohibit trains from using their whistles within town limits. Redicopp said Calgary and Crossfield are two municipalities who have anti-whistle by-laws.

"We've found the towns who have these by-laws are pretty safe," said Redicopp. "They usually have flashing lights and crossing arms [while I don't have any official statistics] I don't think there is any significant difference between when there is a whistle and when they don't whistle."

But while such a by-law would help residents bothered by the noisy trains, Councillor Doug Sharpe said Didsbury would probably not look into instituting one.

"We went through this while anti-whistling thing a few years back, it even went as far as first reading," Sharpe said. "But then coincidentally, there was a fatality and the whole thing was dropped. If there is a remote possibility someone is going to get hurt because of no whistle, we don't want to do it."

A group representing Didsbury will be travelling to Edmonton later this fall in an effort to bring a sewage treatment pilot project to town.

Councillor Marjorie Malinowski said town representatives will meet with a researcher along with 35 other municipalities to learn more about a new process for a lagoon system which uses more environmentally sensitive method to treat raw sewage.

Malinowski said the invitation to attend the meeting stemmed from research into alternate methods of sewage treatment by Didsbury's recently formed Environmental Advisory Board.

Two Didsbury residents have been nominated to receive a special medal from the Canadian government to recognize their community contributions.

Anne Milne and Annie Pringle will be presented with the Canadian commemorative medal on October 24 by Wild Rose Member of Parliament Louise Feltham.

The medal was created by the federal government as part of celebrations for Canada's 125th birthday.

In nominating Milne and Pringle, Council said the two were chosen for their effort and commitment to the town.

"I think if these two were to leave, we will need 20 others to replace each of them," said Councillor Marjorie Malinowski.

Three new policies have been passed by town council in an effort to placate Didsbury business owners.

The policies, which dictate where the town will do business, were recommended by the General Government committee.

Councillor Neville Marshall said the policies were recommended to make town operations more fair to businesses.

"We want to spread the business around," he said.

Under the new policies, Didsbury's public works equipment servicing will be alternated between all town service businesses rather than just one. Town travel arrangements will now be alternated between the 2 travel agencies and town tire service will also be traded every 6 months between the 2 tire businesses.

YOU WOULDN'T FEED THEM MONEY, SO WHY DO YOU LET THEM DRINK IT?

You could be pouring far too much money into winter watering by using inefficient cattle waterers or floating stock tank heaters. You're paying for the energy they waste.

With an energy efficient cattle waterer you'll save $40 right away with a special rebate from TransAlta for every one you purchase. And you can save as much as $80 a season, per waterer, by reducing your power bill — that can add up to more than $1,200 over the life of one energy efficient waterer!

And cutting costs doesn't mean giving up reliability. Thousands of Alberta ranchers and farmers trust energy efficient cattle waterers to get the job done.

$40 REBATE UNTIL NOVEMBER 30

Getting the $40 rebate is easy. If you're a TransAlta customer, all you have to do is purchase a CSA approved, energy efficient or energy free, cattle waterer before November 30, 1992.

Also, to be eligible for the rebate, it must have an installed insulation level of R6 or better. There are plenty of makes and models to choose from. Your local farm equipment dealer can show you the models that qualify and provide you with the rebate application forms. Or you can call us at 267-7533 and we'll send you an application form in the mail.

SAVE NOW, SAVE LATER

Energy efficient cattle waterers are an easy, reliable way to reduce your winter watering costs by up to $80 per season for every one you use. And since the purchase price between regular waterers and energy efficient waterers is minimal, especially with a $40 rebate, you begin saving right away.

So get Power Smart, and keep your money in the bank instead of pouring it into the cattle trough.

Please unchain Craig Shergold

By Elaine Wilson

A 'bogus' chain letter is making the rounds of the Olds area. The letter asks kind-hearted individuals to make a dream come true for a "seven year old suffering from terminal cancer." It states that young Craig Shergold is hoping to make the Guinness World Book of Records by collecting a record number of business cards. Listing the "Children's Make A Wish Foundation" as the sponsor, the letter appears to be legitimate.

"Craig would be grateful," the letter asserts, "if you would send one of your business cards to the address below and also send the enclosed pages, including one of your own, to another 10 companies." The concluding sentence is both terse and touching: "Obviously speed is of the essence."

A call to the Make-A-Wish Foundation of America in Arizona (the letter erroneously lists an address in Georgia) to learn more about the Shergold story unleashed an unexpectedly vehement response. This apparently genuine appeal may well have been launched with the best of intentions, but it has become a monumental headache for the Shergold family and Make-A-Wish. The letter is outdated and full of inaccuracies. Karla Blomberg, the national American President of the Make-A-Wish Foundation has been flooded with letters and telephone calls about Shergold for several years, and has done everything she can to put an end to it.

"Our organization is not, and has never been associated with this letter," Blomberg says in a statement she has prepared for press inquiries. "Yet our office has received literally thousands of calls diverting our staff time and resources from our mission. This is a terrible waste of time, paper and postage by the well-intentioned people who respond to the letter. On behalf of the Shergold family, the Make-A-Wish Foundation requests that people please stop sending business cards or greeting cards to Craig Shergold."

Craig Shergold, now 13, did in fact launch an appeal for greeting cards (not business cards as this letter states) in 1989, hoping to set a record. In 1990, after receiving over 15 million cards his wish was fulfilled. His name is now entered in the Guinness World Book of Records. After a successful operation to remove a brain tumor in 1991, Shergold made a complete recovery and is expected to live a full and active life. Chain letters are almost impossible to trace and even more difficult to stop altogether. The deluge of mail still persistently flooding the Shergold mailbox is the only shadow trailing the happy ending to his story.

Representatives from Canada Post and the Commercial Crimes Division of the RCMP in Calgary could not find a ruling that deemed chain letters illegal where money or goods are not involved. However, it's worth noting that even apparently well-intentioned chain letters may be causing untold grief and havoc somewhere down the line.

Those wanting information on legitimate causes and activities sponsored by the Make-A-Wish Foundation can contact the Vancouver chapter at: Make A Wish Foundation of British Columbia, 470 Granville St., Suite 1120, Vancouver, B.C. V6C 1V5, (604) 688-7944.

Fire play

The Olds Fire Department responded in full force to a call from the Mountain View Senior's Lodge at 7:30 Monday evening (Sept. 14). The 'fire' was actually a staged event executed in tandem with the RCMP and ambulance service. The sirens and flashing lights drew quite a crowd.

Lodge Employee Rosemary Enzie said: "I couldn't believe how many firefighters showed up here. There must have been about 30! But it went really well."

The drill is an annual event. Next summer (if weather permits) the tentative plan involves a surprise alarm and a full evacuation. A timely reminder—Fire Prevention week runs the second week in October. The Olds Fire Hall has scheduled an open house for October 8 to give the public a chance to ask questions and have a look at the equipment up close.

Handicapped riders compete in weekend show

This weekend marked a proud time for 45 special equine enthusiasts in and around Olds. Every fall, the Mount View Handicapped Association, along with the Olds Ag. Society host their Annual Riding Show at the Cow Palace for specially challenged participants province-wide.

Betty and Austin Fisher, of Carstairs, were both there to support the Association they founded for the district 10 years ago.

To Austin, the commitment made by both himself and his wife to the Association is nominal compared to the barriers overcome by the riders involved. "It is a challenge for some of them, but everyone does well and has a great time. Most of the members with us have been riding for a number of years and have some sort of background knowledge about horses. We're all just in it for the fun," says Austin.

Few would argue with strictly-for-fun events added into the Show's program including: the "Egg and Spoon Race", "Wild Rose Relay", and "Red Light/Green Light." Of course, there's still the traditional highlights seen in any good show. English Equitation, Western Equitation, Western Pleasure, and Western Trail Class--all levels 1-3 and English Pleasure levels 2 and 3 have become mainstays in the annual event.

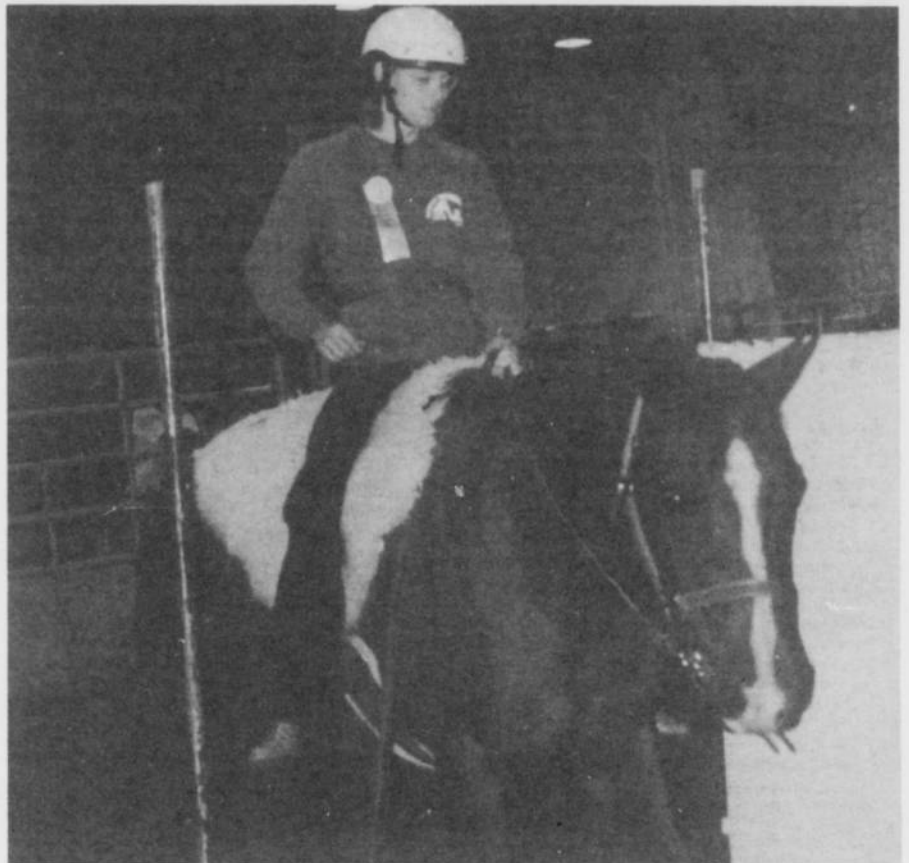

Spectators watching participants work through the different programs with their horses often forget the tremendous willpower

and dedication it takes to overcome the individual obstacles they must face. "We have all different kinds of handicapped riders with us... from mildly to severely challenged. They're all pretty brave," Austin explains. "So far, we've been lucky too... we haven't had to modify that much riding gear. It helps that the horses are well behaved. It's not hard to ride them with a halter."

Regardless, countless hours are spent preparing for the show each year--all without pay. "There's many of us out there working to see the show get off the ground. All Betty and I really do is see that the horses we donate get packed up and out to Olds on time. Everything else just seems to fall into place. We have a great team of volunteers working with the Association that do a tremendous job in ensuring each year is a success."

Publicity for the event received an extra boost this year with the undertaking of the show's announcing by Channels 2/7 Anchorman Rick Castiglione. Charley Hubschmid volunteered his services as Judge, Jack Johnston served as Ring Master, Roy Wagner as Hitching Ring, Jean McCullough as Organist, and Suzanne Fisher as Show Secretary.

The Mount View Handicapped Riding Association runs for eight weeks in the spring and eight in the fall. There are approximately 10 other clubs or associations like it sprinkled throughout rural and urban Alberta.

Hi, all! This morning it looks as if summer is over and winter has arrived.

Things were a bit quiet over the summer here but now a lot of regular activities are resuming.

The ladies from the Catholic Church called Bingo one afternoon and we carried on with a lot of regular activities like a weekly bingo and crafts.

Quite a number of residents have spent some time visiting family and friends.

Our newest resident is Mrs. Kay Brown. We welcome you and hope you soon feel "at home" with us.

The recent pool tournament had as winners "A" side: 1st Roy Luckham; 2nd Laura Watkins; "B" side: 1st Karl Lenz; 2nd Doug Burns.

Carstairs gets recycling project grant

The Town of Carstairs has been awarded a $29,920 grant through Alberta's Action on Waste program to establish a paper and cardboard project to serve the Town and surrounding area. Details of the grant were announced by Alberta Environment Minister Ralph Klein, Olds-Didsbury Constituency MLA, Roy Brassard.

"The Alberta Action on Waste program's goal is to reduce the amount of solid waste we produce by 50% by the year 2000," said Klein.

"One of the nice things about this project is that so many different types of materials will be collected which will help Alberta achieve its waste minimization goal," noted Brassard.

The project will be operated by the Carstairs and District Lions Club. They will use a former seed cleaning plant which the Town has secured earlier for this purpose. The funds will be used to purchase a baler, forklift, pallet jack, two highway trailers for storage only, and storage bins.

Under the Action on Waste program, municipalities and non-profit organizations can apply for Resource Recovery Grants to establish recycling and waste reduction projects. The Resource Recovery Grant Program has provided funds to over 200 projects throughout the province since 1976. The program encourages non-profit and service groups to involve their municipalities in recycling programs.

Sheep show

Hundreds of spectators turned out to PaSu Farms this weekend for the Canadian National Sheepdog trials and the Old Tyme Sheep Fair. Visitors were treated to shows of shepherds and their dogs, sheep shearing, weaving and lamb cooking during the two day event. The weekend closed with a gourmet lamb barbecue on Sunday evening.

Carstairs election news

Nomination papers are in for municipal elections within the Town of Carstairs.

Nominated to run for the position of mayor are Bob Wilson and Rick Blair. Incumbents Richard Dais, William Dallas and Anne Strilchuk will vie with Marion Milner, Tom Nicklefork, Milton Ollenberger, Gary Selanders, Robert Stewart and Randy Wilson for the six council seats available.

The hospital board position has been given by acclamation to Patricia Barr.

Incumbent school trustee Susan Denischuk will vie with Carole Parker for the town's single seat on the school board.

Carstairs municipal elections, along with all other municipal elections in the province, will be held October 19.

Recycling continued from page 1

"One of our mandates is to find an efficient way to deal with environmental problems," he said. "But we also have a financial responsibility. I can say that our people are working with the applicants right now and that the submission is still active. It isn't dead."

Didsbury Town Administrator Mike Storey said the town is looking into finding an appropriate building for the project and added that there are several alternatives to deal with the setback.

"Right now we are looking for something we can either lease or use in the short term, then we can decide what to do," he said. "Council can either use a debenture and build a building or we could lease land apply for funding for that lease through the federal government in the Environmental Partners Fund. They only fund operational costs."

Both Storey and Banfield feel that once the town shows how successfully they can run the recycling project, the province may be more willing to supply funds for a building.

In the meantime, Banfield said the group is not having much luck funding a building appropriate for the project but adds that once one is found, the rest of the funding is likely to fall in place.

"We are having trouble finding a place because there is lack of buildings in Didsbury right now," he said. "But it is my feeling that once we find one, the project will be a go."

There's a lot of truth in Schneider's slogan, "Taste the difference quality makes." If you compare a few labels, you'll never find the phrase "May Contain" on any Schneider's meat package. Schneider's still make their products the same way J.M. did back at the turn of the century... using fresh meat, smoked to perfection over hardwood fires. And to make sure you're getting more value, Schneider's trim their meat a special way... so that you get more meat and less fat. After ninety-six years, people still keep coming back for more... you can still taste the difference quality makes.

What am I?

The following poem is a guessing game. Read carefully and try to determine who the "I" is.

God made Adam out of dust,
But thought it best to make me first,
So I was made before the man,
To answer God's most holy plan.

My body He did make complete,
Without legs or arms or feet.
My ways and actions did control,
And in me placed a living soul.

And when from me that soul was fled,
I was the same as when first made.
So now without legs or arms or soul,
I travel now from pole to pole.

I never hang around a town,
So never need a dress or gown.
Though I can see them far away,
I have no desire in them to stay.

The Scriptures I cannot believe,
So for the lost I do not grieve.
Although there in my name is found,
They are to me an empty sound.

(If you can guess what "I Am"—give The Review a call, 335-3301, between 1:00 p.m. and 2:00 p.m. on Wednesday—the first correct guess wins a prize! If you can't guess yet—watch for more clues in next week's edition.)

Blue Cross offers new travel plans

Alberta Blue Cross has introduced three new travel coverage products to the Alberta market: Multi-Trip Travel, Per Diem Travel and Silver Travel Coverage.

"We developed three different travel coverage plans to meet the needs of three, very distinct types of customers," explains Ron Malin, vice-president of Marketing for Alberta Blue Cross.

Multi-Trip Coverage is available for Albertans age 54 and under who travel outside Alberta more than once a year. It has no pre-existing conditions, no cost-sharing deductible, and provides coverage for any number of trips up to 30 days in length over a one year period.

The Per Diem Travel Coverage is for Albertans of all ages. Coverage is available for trips from one day to 182 days in length. There is no deductible, but this product does have certain pre-existing conditions for anyone 55 years of age and over. Consumers should review the brochure information carefully. If their medical condition is not covered, they should consider Silver Travel Coverage.

Silver Travel Coverage is for people age 55 and over that have a pre-existing medical condition. It covers certain pre-existing medical conditions, but there is a cost-sharing deductible. A subscriber under the Silver plan is responsible for paying the first $5,000 of any covered expense incurred.

Gene Holman, Senior Manager of Individual Products-Sales explains, "We were losing money on our travel plan. We had to take a serious look at what was happening in the market place, what we were offering our customers and how we were administering the product and processing its claims."

In 1991 travel claims for Alberta Blue Cross travel coverage exceeded revenue and with the addition of administration expenses needed to maintain the product in the marketplace the product lost over $1.5 million last year.

Ron Malin adds, "We were faced with two choices: withdraw the product from the marketplace completely or develop separate plans to fit the different segments of the market."

There are three distinct groups of Alberta travellers with very different health coverage needs. The first market segment, people under 55 years of age, tend to travel quite frequently, but take shorter trips. Because they are younger, they have fewer health problems and their claims tend to be more accident related. The second group are people over the age of 55 who are generally healthy. These people are often retired or semi-retired, allowing them the opportunity to travel and lead active life styles. The final group were those individuals over the age of 55 who have a pre-existing medical condition, but still travelled quite a bit.

The Silver plan is the only one of its kind in the market place.

"Unlike our competitors, we didn't just cut these people off," explains Holman.

Blue Cross created a product that offers these individuals the opportunity to travel with emergency health coverage. The Silver Plan protects people from catastrophic loss if a pre-existing condition reoccurs. We separated this market segment from the other two groups so their claims experience wouldn't continue to increase the cost of emergency travel coverage for our other customers."

He adds, "we had to make changes to remain competitive. Blue Cross is a not-for-profit organization and we believe these new products will help us break even in the individual travel coverage market."

Lone Pine Bench Fair results

The Lone Pine Agricultural Society escaped the first of many of mother natures devastating frosts late in August and was able to host a very successful bench fair. Flowers and vegetables were plenty along with capacity filled arts and handi-crafts sections.

Judges Elsie Garson, Bernice Price and Nelda Lyczewski certainly had a long day in decision making, but were done just in time before the doors opened to the public, to view 660 entries from 102 exhibitors. Forty of these exhibitors were youth and presented some very creative crafts and handi-works. Two beautiful hand crafted wood desks were the creations of Dallas Ziegler and Abe Warkentine. The baking section had the ever popular Fry's Cocoa Dessert entry and this year was won by Doreen Sawatzky and Linda Rathburn.

Top adult prize winners were Deana Whitley, Didsbury, Isabell Hogg, Huxley, Jackie Leitch and Eva Page both of Didsbury. The top junior prize winners were Travis Coates, Olds, Greg and Chelsey Stumpf both of Didsbury.

When the doors opened to the public that evening, there was an excellent turnout, the Lone Pine area had terrific support. The crowd was entertained by the musical talents of Brenda Cipperley, Hank Campbell and Jean McColloch. The youngsters (young and old) enjoyed the hay rides provided by Henry Brown.

Other entertainment included Donnelly McNeil who was in great demand for face painting and Bruce Dowell and family who provided balloon creations and clown antics.

A future date to mark on your calendar, will be the Lone Pine Christmas Craft Sale to be held November 4, Wednesday. For table rentals, please call Joanne Hannah, 335-4190.

Cremona minor hockey and ringette report

By Ryan Robertson

The chilling of the air, the recent arrival of snow and the opening of The Flames Training Camp are all signs that yes, hockey season is once again just around the corner.

Here in Cremona, hockey registration was held on September 9th and 10th.

As an added bonus this year, a "Super Skills Hockey Camp" was introduced to players from Novice through Bantam. It involves four sessions and will be held on October 17th and 18th at the arena.

Under the direction of head instructor Todd Hass, the program should prove to be very beneficial to all concerned as preparations begin for the 1992-93 season, and all that goes with it.

Good luck to all, no matter what link in the chain you may be!

The letter

Dear Terry Fox, Evil Cancer began,
Positions have worsened for me since you ran.
No matter how much I attack and connive,
The Terry Fox run keeps your memory alive.
Don't know how you managed to trigger such love,
Bet you must be glad looking down from above.
You called me 'the hurting' and said I must stop,
Since I was a killer then you became cop.
All over the world they're supporting your dream,
Those Terry Fox pledges could just make me scream.
When you passed away I was sure I had won,
How little I knew you had only begun.

Women's equipment program offered

Farming holds few barriers for women today, especially with the help of Olds College.

The Women's Farm Equipment Operation Program, being made available through the College's Extension Services in January, 1993, will provide useful information on basic farming equipment operating and maintenance skills for today's farming woman. Everything from tractors, to seeders, swathers, and combines will be covered in the four-week comprehensive program being funded by Employment and Immigration Canada.

"The old adage that suggests it is never a good idea to teach your own family to drive holds just as true with farm equipment," says Program Manager Ed Shaw. He said for that reason the program will concentrate just as heavily on practical instruction as it will on the theory. "It's that kind of thorough learning experience that makes it easier to understand the many different varieties of equipment."

Shaw believes one of the most useful skills students will learn through the program is troubleshooting. Understanding why a particular piece of equipment has stopped working and learning how to prevent breakdowns is often crucial during hectic seeding and harvest seasons.

Communication skills, such as those useful in understanding "shop talk" from a professional mechanic, are also considered essential for students to learn.

"It can be a very isolating and intimidating experience not being able to speak the same language as your mechanic or partsman. In most cases that is how problems with trust in workmanship arise," said Shaw.

Of course no farm equipment program would be complete without discussing safety precautions and basic first-aid skills. Instruction on how to operate farm equipment safely, and on how to respond to farm accidents, if they do occur, will be introduced to students in the program by qualified instructors.

The Women's Farm Equipment Operation Program begins February, 1993 and applications for registration are being accepted now. More information about the program, or on how to apply can be gained by calling the Olds College.

Funding opportunities for students who qualify are available through the Canada Employment and Immigration Centre (C.E.I.C.) in Drumheller.

Early fall fertilization recommended

New research from Westco Fertilizer shows early deep banding of fertilizer—as early as September 25—is now an acceptable practice. This research is significantly different than the old guideline that suggested delaying application until October 15 or until the soil has cooled to 10 C.

The research, using deep band urea, was conducted over a period of several years and compared barley yields from four different application dates: early fall (September 25 to October 5), mid-October, late October and spring.

Overall, the yield results in the fall were virtually identical. The spring yield was slightly higher due to the influence of wet soils associated with some of the trials. However on drier soils, fall deep banding was superior to spring.

"What this means is that on a lot of prairie soils, you don't have to wait for that magical October 15 date or for the soil to cool to 10 C," says John Harapiak, Research Agronomist with Westco at Calgary, Alberta. He does, however, caution against deep banding on soils that are subject to excessive fall moisture and/or poor internal drainage and/or spring flooding from snow melt.

Another caution is the method of application. Yield response to broadcast fertilizer is better when applied closer to seeding date. Therefore, if fertilizer is broadcast in the fall, the old guidelines should still be adhered to.

According to Harapiak, the big benefit to prairie farmers is being able to beat the winter weather. "On a number of occasions in the last decade—last year included—farmers who needlessly waited for soil temperatures to cool were prevented from applying any fall fertilizer by an early snow storm," he says. "Now many farmers, who band apply fertilizer, have a much greater window of opportunity to apply their fertilizer in the fall."

Westco Fertilizers is a business partner of the three prairie pools and is dedicated to providing farmers with information on the most practical and efficient methods of applying fertilizer.

Diversity highlighted at conference

Technology drives life in the 1990s like an engine powers an automobile, and for a sample of that power in Alberta's agri-food industry, you can attend the 1992 Farming for the Future Conference.

Scheduled for November 19 at the Westerner Exposition in Red Deer, the conference is designed for producers, processors, researchers, agribusinesses, teachers, students and the general public. Its theme is agri-food diversification.

"Alberta's agri-food scientists, some of the best in the world, are exploring new frontiers and making exciting discoveries. This leading-edge research and technology transfer will contribute to the success of the province's agri-food industry into the year 2000 and beyond. You'll be able to experience some of these important discoveries at the conference," says Patrick Marce, research information officer with Alberta Agriculture's research division.

"The conference will offer an interesting mixture of research and on-farm demonstration presentations—in plain language—and, a showcase of displays illustrating new developments in crop, livestock and agricultural processing," he adds.

A morning plenary session kicks off the day-long conference. Concurrent sessions on crops, livestock and agricultural processing will be held in the afternoon, followed by an on-farm demonstration session. The day concludes with an evening banquet featuring Shirley McClellan, Alberta's associate minister of agriculture, as the keynote speaker.

"Farming for the Future, through its research and on-farm demonstration projects, has compiled an outstanding record of achievement since its inception in 1979," he notes. Results range from improved crop varieties and livestock production methods, to innovative food packaging and preservation techniques.

The conference is sponsored by the Alberta Agricultural Research Institute, a Crown corporation, and Alberta's leading agricultural research coordinating and funding organization.

For more information about the conference, contact the Alberta Agricultural Research Institute Edmonton at 427-1956.

Clumpy Shoulders

Sometimes I've found myself trying to smooth and reposition a lumpy shoulder pad to no avail. I then question the quality of the garment I purchased.

"Tips and Trends" from the Soap and Detergent Association suggests that this shifting and clumping results from agitation and tumbling in the laundry. To prevent this, pads should be removed before washing. For permanently attached pads, pinning a small safety pin through each end of the pad will help maintain its shape. Pin only through the pad, don't pin the pad to the garment.

Agriculture Software

Selecting the right agriculture software for on-farm use can be difficult. An updated agriculture software directory (Agdex 818-37) is now available to assist you with your decision making.

This publication lists all the agriculture software packages available. It is the sixth edition of the directory. The number of listings has grown from 500 to over 800.

The directory includes the software categories: financial record keeping, physical record keeping, nutrition and fertilizer analysis, decision making aids, communication, marketing, land management and education.

At the back of the directory a listing of contacts for this software is shown. It gives you a comprehensive listing of all manufacturers, their phone numbers and addresses.

If you are using your computer for farm use, I would encourage you to drop by the district office. Pick up this excellent software directory. It is

Columbus - The encounter

This is the fourth installment in a series of stories based on the voyage of Christopher Columbus, famed for the discovery of the Americas. 1992 is the 500th anniversary of this voyage. To mark the occasion, The Review will publish, every two weeks until December, stories detailing the trip and how it impacted on life here—in the new world.

Part IV

By Ron Tyler

The compass, along with other navigational improvements of the 15th century, helped Europe to become a dominant seafaring power for the next 4 centuries.

The application of the magnetized needle to navigate had already occurred in China about 1000 A.D. By Columbus' time, the magnetic compass had become so indispensable that a captain would carry extra magnetized needles (Magellan took 35 needles to replace the one in use if it "lost" north). The compass itself was kept in a box or binnacle on board ship.

When Columbus' compass seemed to fail, all on board were perplexed.

Monday, September 17, 1492 - "The pilots took the north, marking it and found that the compass needles varied to the northwest a full point; and the sailors were fearful and depressed.

What in fact had happened was that the ships had sailed to a point of latitude where one could observe the rotation of the North Star—a phenomenon not visible in the northern latitudes. The sailors then would find the North Star first to one side and then the other of magnetic north. Assuming the stars to be fixed, they concluded their instrument must be wrong.

In a stroke of luck or genius, Columbus stated to his men that "the reason was that the star appeared to move and not the needles" and "it appears that the star moves like other stars, and the compasses always point true." Why he said this cannot be determined for his conclusion could not have come from experience. In the end, however, it turned out to be absolutely correct.

Thursday, September 20, 1492 - "This day he steered west by north and westnorthwest, because the winds were very variable in the calm weather. They probably made no more than seven or eight leagues."

(Ron Tyler is a grade 4 teacher at Ross Ford Elementary School in Didsbury and a history buff.)

Notes from the Dragon's den

The Battle of the Grades is back again. September 25th is the day. Students will arrive at school that morning in costumes. The Students' Union will have given each grade a theme and the kids will dress accordingly, (e.g. Cowboys would wear jeans, a plaid shirt, boots, and a hat). Then, after three morning classes, students will assemble in the gym. The grade nines will now pledge their allegiance to the school as a whole but with special recognition given to the grade twelves. Next, a series of competitions will be held including: Tug-of-War, Jello Dunk, Pie Throwing, and Obstacle Courses—this is the Battle of the Grades. Winners will accumulate points and the grade with the highest total will be announced at the afternoon BBQ to be hosted by the teachers for all the students (i.e. hamburgers and hotdogs). The grade which wins the Battle will be given free admission to the dance. Yes, a dance will be held in the evening to welcome the new grade nines to D.H.S.

While Didsbury High is busy welcoming in a new grade nine student body, we must also bid a fond farewell to a long-time staff member. Miss Malcom (now Mrs. Worsfold) arrived at D.H.S. in the fall of 1976, 16 years ago. She has since married and is raising two children in Olds. She has focused her teaching skills on English studies and has always set high standards for her students' behavior and work with special emphasis given to grammatical detail. She has spent untold hours coaching girls' basketball teams at both the junior and senior high levels.

Professional development is important to Mrs. Worsfold. She is active in the local A.T.A., having held the President's position for a number of years. Currently, she is involved in pursuing her Master's Degree in Education. In the fall of 1990, Mrs. Worsfold was appointed to an interim vice-principalship, accordingly, she is now leaving D.H.S. for a permanent administrative position. We wish her the best of luck!

Didsbury teacher Beth Worsfold.

AMA leads anti-auto theft program

A new public service campaign, called "STOP THIEF!", will remind motorists simple precautions can deter car thieves and help police identify stolen vehicles, says Dr. Ted Allison, chairman of the Alberta Motor Association's Board of Governors.

"The rising trend in car theft concerns AMA in two ways," Dr. Allison said. "First, of course, our members are among the victims. Second, our insurance company, and others, must charge everyone higher premiums because of the increasing number and increasing cost of car theft claims."

With the support of local police services throughout the province, Alberta Solicitor General and Alberta Lotteries, AMA has launched a three-part program to combat auto theft.

The first component is a public awareness campaign. "Billboards have already gone up in the province's six largest cities to catch people's attention," Dr. Allison said.

The second component will help police identify which vehicles are being used legitimately between the hours of 1:00 a.m. and 5:00 a.m., the period of highest risk of theft.

"We have developed a decal for use by the great majority of drivers whose vehicles are not usually on our streets and highways overnight," Dr. Allison said. "Simply showing this decal tells police that, if they see the car being driven between 1:00 a.m. and 5:00 a.m., they can assume it has been stolen."

"All four western provinces now have a similar decal program," he said. "It is a proven way to deter car thieves. So few vehicles are protected in any way, any security measure—including simply locking the doors and displaying this decal—may be enough to send a prospective thief on to an easier target."

The third component of the program suggests the provincial government and the insurance industry consider changing the standard automobile policy to apply a deductible amount on theft or damage claims where the vehicle had been left unlocked or unattended.

Dr. Allison also announced an increase to AMA's cash reward for information leading to a conviction in cases where a theft or hit-and-run collision involves an auto club member's

The Way of Life

"Jailed For Doing Nothing"
By Pastor Richard Pahl
Didsbury Zion Evangelical Church

What would your reaction be if you saw the headline in the newspaper, "Jailed For Doing Nothing"? Your first reaction would probably be one of unbelief and secondly that it just couldn't happen. The following incident is an example of just such a happening.

A certain man was in charge of the warning system at a very dangerous railroad crossing. He was very familiar with all the requirements as well as the train schedules. However, one day he failed to drop the barricade and turn on the warning signal. As a result, a family of four pulled onto the tracks and into the path of the express. All of them were killed. The watchman was brought to trial and convicted of "criminal negligence." He was sentenced to imprisonment for failing to carry out his duties. Think of it! Jailed for doing nothing.

How often could the same thing be true of us in our daily lives. We don't want to become involved in the issues that are prevailing in our community. An election comes along and we do not take the time to go and place our mark on the ballot. The plebiscites that are held in our community don't stir us to any level of excitement. Instead we sit back and watch what happens. Our attitude often is, "My one vote isn't going to make any difference in the outcome anyway." The problem is that there are many who think the same way and consequently the issues have a far different outcome than possibly could or should have been because we were indifferent and did nothing.

It is our privilege and responsibility as citizens of this community and country to do our part in helping to shape the standards and regulations that affect the life style which we enjoy. Next time you are called upon to help decide an issue, do so. Don't be caught in the careless attitude that perhaps could someday have you "jailed for doing nothing."

In Memoriam

In memory of Shirley Smith - passed away Sept. 19, 1991.

Dear Shirley: "We often think of you, our memories fond

Your acts of kindness; laughter, and friendship we oft reflect upon.

Earth's robins, bluejays, roses and daisies sway In the wind singing their love song. For gentle arms have lifted you up to a glorious heavenly throng.

Now it's there in tranquil peace, you enjoy God's beauty and the robin's love song.

While we here below, cling to memories strong."

Lovingly remembered: Edgar, Della, Bruce & Carol 23-1tp

Cash advances urged

Uniform President Hartmann Nagel is urging Ottawa to re-instate interest free cash advances on unsold grain on a permanent basis.

The head of Alberta's farm organization, in a letter to grains minister Charlie Mayer, points out that the interest-free characteristic has had to be re-instated on an ad hoc basis from time to time. (In a program which expired July 31 the first $50,000 of a maximum of $250,000 was offered interest-free.)

Nagel says the need for a program that makes available much needed cash to keep a major part of the Western Canadian economy going will be continued into the foreseeable future. Whether grain producers sell into the orderly marketing system provided by the Canadian Wheat Board, or the open market, sales opportunities arise over a relatively long period of time, he points out.

There is historical proof of the benefit of the program to primary producers and, equally important, to the economy as a whole, the Uniform president says.

In earlier contact with the minister's office it was learned that a decision will be made in about two weeks.
